

Steve Jones

SVP, Strategy, Transformation and Development

Stephen Jones and his team drive continuous change and related process improvement across CSM's global organization.

Prior to joining CSM in 2014, Steve spent 12 years with The Coca-Cola Company in roles of increasing responsibility within strategy, transformation and development. Of note, Steve led the program management office responsible for the integration of Coca-Cola Enterprises into The Coca-Cola Company.

Other Coca-Cola assignments included: spearheading the global "System Evolution" program for the continued transformation of the bottling segment; and leading the turnaround and integration of Odwalla into the broader Coca-Cola business. During his tenure at Odwalla, Steve also helped the business successfully implement SAP and Coca-Cola's integrated model of operations.

Prior to Coca-Cola, he spent three years in management consulting with Bain & Company after a seven-year stint at Lockheed Martin as a senior engineer.

Steve has a Bachelor of Science from Duke University in Electrical Engineering and Masters of Engineering in Systems Engineering from Virginia Polytechnic Institute. He also has an M.B.A. from Harvard Business School.
